

About Jeanette DePatie: Your Best Life Producer

Jeanette DePatie is one of the top student motivation speakers in the country.

Here's why: She's funny, her powerful stories keep audiences mesmerized and she "keeps it real". Sharing her real-life story beginning with her humble beginnings in rural Wisconsin to her budding career as an opera singer, through her life as a business owner to her exciting career as a Hollywood producer, spokeswoman and entertainer, Jeanette shares fascinating insights about what it means to be successful and how to "use what you've got" to produce the life you want.

Jeanette's passion stems from the realization nearly 30 years into her life that she had spent her entire life "weighting" around to have the socially acceptable body she thought she needed to pursue her dreams. Realizing that a "perfect body" is neither attainable nor necessary for the vast majority of people, she resolved to stop obsessing over her body, stop waiting around for a risk-free window and start living the life she'd always dreamed of. Since that time, Jeanette has worked as a producer with many of the top Hollywood studios including Disney, Fox, HBO, Paramount, Sony Imageworks, Universal and Warner Bros. Jeanette's life is one that we can celebrate as proof that you don't have to have a runway model body to have the life of your dreams.

Looking for a speaker that really CONNECTS with your students...

Dear Event
Coordinator
Friend,

You're going to love this.
Seriously.

For over ten years, coordinators and managers have entrusted me with students like yours to connect with them as a friend and mentor and help them cope with some of the most challenging issues facing young people today. I have helped them learn to love their bodies, love exercise and love themselves again. I also share crazy stories and hard-won wisdom from my life as a Hollywood producer to help teach young people to produce their own lives.

I have created some specific techniques for getting students to stop obsessing about their physical appearance, stop preparing for some imaginary "life audition" and follow my concrete steps to produce spectacular opportunities for themselves. I've been on TV a lot with these techniques, but that's not important. What is important is these strategies actually work to make a difference in the lives of young people.

Although I spend a lot of time on television, my real passion is working hands-on, helping students learn to be the producers and directors of their own destinies. The programs I've developed help students reduce stress, increase productivity and achieve more all while living healthier and better lives.

When you bring me in, the message not only has an instant effect, but also connects with students in a way that lasts a lifetime.

I guarantee results that will make you look like a superhero.

Let's do it!

Keynotes and Workshops

Producing Your Best Life (A Hollywood Life Lesson)

(Motivation/Career Development)

As a power producer and board member for the Producers Guild of America,

Jeanette DePatie has worked with most of the major studios in Hollywood. From her humble beginnings in rural Wisconsin to working with major Hollywood directors (Martin Scorsese), creators (Joss Whedon)

and stars (Josh Hutcherson) Jeanette used her no-nonsense, get it done style to build a career in the sexiest town on earth.

Students will learn:

- How to stop preparing endlessly for "life auditions" and build their own careers.
- How to manage their projects, their money and their lives like producers.
- Why story tellers are more successful.
- How to network like a rock star.
- How to build winning teams and how to cope with friends and co-workers that won't come out of their trailers.
- Why you need to build respect before you build rapport.
- How to be an all-star negotiator and walk away from the table a winner every time.

All Bodies are GOOD Bodies (Even YOURS!)

(Love Your Body Week)

In this world of Photoshopped and airbrushed bodies we are expected to be "red carpet ready" 100 percent of the time. But in the real world, where you have term papers due, exams to study for and no onsite staff to do your laundry, it doesn't always work that way. In this seminar, Jeanette DePatie (AKA The Fat Chick) shares with students important information about how people of all shapes and sizes can learn to love the skin they're in.

Students will learn:

- How to stop putting their lives on hold while waiting for the "perfect body"
- How to effectively evaluate claims from advertisers and the weight loss industry
- Why even Cindy Crawford wishes she looks like Cindy Crawford (hint Adobe PS)
- How to recognize triggers for disordered eating and put body size in perspective
- How to separate health from size and achieve wellness without worry
- How body snarking affects the way you think about the way you think about others and the way you think about yourself, and
- Why you must never, ever say you hate your thighs.

Don't Bully Bodies (Yours OR Mine)

(Love Your Body Week/Anti Bullying/Diversity)

When it comes to bodies, one has to wonder, can't we all just get along? In this seminar we will discuss why you shouldn't bully anyBODY (especially your own!) We'll talk about how and why the media builds impossible standards of beauty and the extraordinary efforts we are willing to make in order to reinforce those standards. We'll also talk about how social media impacts the way we look at and talk about bodies.

Students will learn:

- How to recognize and ultimately moderate the voice of their inner critics
- How body bullying affects health
- Why body snarking is NEVER a good idea
- How unrealistic beauty ideas affect our society as well as our mental health
- How social media not only perpetuates body bullying, but also offers relief
- Why you should never allow the body police to pull you over to the side of the road
- Why you must never, ever say you hate your thighs, and
- How beauty is actually far more complex and far more diverse than you may think.

Health 101 (Real Life Tips for Freshmen)

(Freshman Orientation/Campus Health)

We enter college with the best of intentions.

Daily workouts, salads for dinner and a good night's sleep are all on the agenda. Then we spend a few Mondays nursing hangovers and a few midweek all-nighters and all heck breaks loose. In this interactive presentation, students will play an electronic game show complete with random (ridiculously fun) dance breaks.

Students will learn:

- How to manage to get a decent night's sleep now and again and why it's so important.
- Why they should worry less about the "Freshman 15" and more about developing eating disorders
- How to begin and maintain an exercise program that is safe, effective and FUN
- How to avoid "weekend warrior syndrome" and stay out of the clinic
- How to manage stress and boost immune system function, and
- Why you can't tell if a person is healthy just by looking at them.
